Exercise such as walking may help if the person is bored or if there is too much going on around them. Distract the person to another activity. Walk with the person for a while and then suggest a rest. Use of visual barriers, eg disguise the door, white strips in front of door, 'stop' sign or 'no exit' sign etc.

One of the major challenges of caring for a loved one with Alzheimer's or another dementia is coping with the troubling behavior and personality changes that often occur. Aggressiveness, hallucinations, wandering, or eating or sleeping difficulties can be upsetting and make your role as caregiver even more difficult.
